NO

Wheat Congestion

A new plan for financing farmers, unable on account of congested elevators, to deliver their grain this fall, is proposed by the Board of Directors of United Grain Growers Limited in a statement made public following a meeting, held in Calgary last week. To enable banks to lend money on a broad scale to such farmers, on grain stored on farms, it is suggested that they be given a Government guarantee against loss up to a certain percentage of the total lent. This is similar to the plan followed in the last two Home Improvement Loans, experience with which, it is pointed out has been highly satisfactory both to the Government and to the banks.

It is also asked that the price for wheat to be milled for flour for domestic consumption in Canada be set at not less than $1.00 per bushel, basis No. 1 Northern in store Port William.

The statement calls attention to the fact that at the end of May United Grain Growers Limited had urged the Premier of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba to set up a Western Committee to work with the Dominion Government in the solution of problems forced on Western agriculture by war developments. These problems have since become even more pressing with the increased domination of the enemy in Continental Europe and the shutting off of markets formerly existing for Canadian grain. A serious shortage of elevator space is foreseen with greater part of the elevator space in Canada occupied at the beginning of the new crop year with the largest Canadian wheat carryover in the history of the country. A considerable part of this space in country elevators will be occupied by carryover grain and it is declared if the Western wheat crop is as large as 300,000,000 bushels, it will not be possible to find accommodation during the normal threshing period for as much as half of the grain which farmers will desire to deliver.

"This year" it is said, "when available storage space seems likely to be occupied by those farmers who are most fortunately situated, or who are best equipped with machinery, ordinary sources of credit for other farmers are likely to be completely dried up. That is serious for many other interests besides farmers. The early and rapid disposition of large sums of money in the fall is an important factor in the economy of Western Canada and of the whole Dominion. A considerable part of the business of the country which rests upon the early marketing of the western crop is threatened."

With respect to coarse grains, to relieve the western situation, to provide eastern and Pacific Coast farmers with cheaper feed than grain hitherto imported, and because Canada can no longer afford to furnish exchange for the purchase of imported grain, a greater use of oats and barley grown in the prairie provinces is urged both in Eastern Canada and on the Pacific Coast. Both reduction of freight rates and promotional work on the part of the Dominion and provincial government agencies are suggested.

The statement urges the need for continued price protection through the Canadian Wheat Board, and enabling the Board to handle all wheat without the existing limitations of 5,000 bushels. It continues, "The question of price at which wheat should be sold needs to be considered apart from the initial price paid by the Wheat Board, which represent a minimum price guarantee. If there is no functioning market, as now seems possible, it will be for the Government of Canada to determine at what price wheat should be supplied in Canada for milling purposes. The fact that extremely low prices have recently prevailed in a market disorganized by war is no reason for assuming that western farmers should, through continued acceptance of such prices by the Canadian Wheat Board, subsidize the bread consumers of Canada. It is suggested that a uniform price basis for wheat milled for domestic consumption should be established of not less than $1.00 per bushel for No. 1 Northern in store at Port William."

"The price at which wheat is to be sold to Great Britain should be a matter of direct negotiation between the government of this country and the British Government. In order to arrive at a fair and reasonable price, no longer can ordinary market machinery be relied on to establish a satisfactory basis. It is equally the case that the responsibility for necessary negotiations cannot be left to the Canadian Wheat Board, dealing with an agency buying for the British Government. On a matter such as this, involving government responsibility the government policy in both countries, and with the question involved of financing a common war effort, only the government themselves can deal satisfactorily."

This breakfast SPEAKS FOR ITSELF!

DAD LENDS AN EAR! The moment he pours on the milk or cream, he hears Rice Krispies chattering to him with their merry crackle-pop-snap. They just beg to be eaten. So down-right crisp—and they stay crisp to the very last spoonful!

New thousands now demand POP-CRACKLE-SNAP chorus daily!

All over Canada, children and grownups listen every morning to the cheery song of crispness. Breakfasts are gay when golden-brown Rice Krispies tumble into family cereal bowls! Tests show that Rice Krispies stay floating for hours in milk or cream. "Rice Krispies" is the trade-mark of the Kellogg Company of Canada, Limited, for its delicious brand of oven-popped rice. Order several packages tomorrow. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

of a mind to throw the paper into the fire, but it was natural that she should find excuses for her conduct. And her excuse (stoutly offered and defended to herself) was Jim Carlton and the vague familiarity of "Marling."

Ten minutes passed and then Mr. Harlow came slowly into the room. The door closed with a click behind him and he stood before her on the very spot where Mrs. Edwins had conducted her cold survey.

"My housekeeper came in, didn't she?"

"Yes," She wondered what was coming next.

"My housekeeper"—he spoke slowly—"is the most unbalanced female I have ever known! She is the most suspicious woman I have ever known, and the most annoying woman I am ever likely to know."

His eyes did not leave her face.

One Scheme Failed

Hitler Planned To Upset International Currencies By Forgery

Not the least important among Hitler's crafty schemes to smash the British Empire was the amazing plan to upset international currencies by means of large-scale forgeries. Adolf had an idea that the pens of his counterfeiters were mightier than Britain's democratic awards.

The Nazi public debt is placed at 4,040,000,000 marks (nearly $20,000,000,000 at pre-war levels), and daily gets worse.

So Hitler set about forging British treasury notes, with the object of obtaining cash to buy war necessities in neutral countries. Thousands of forged notes were all traced to one source—Berlin.

But Britain was not caught napping. British scientists had kept one jump ahead of the Nazi forgers. The government secured exclusive use of a certain new secret material, and promptly used it in the new pound and ten-shilling notes.

The weave and composition of the thread running vertically through the notes as a highly prized secret, and make the new issue fool-proof.

In these treasury notes the Bank of England has taken a tip from the Reserve Bank of South Africa in incorporating an unusual anti-forgery device which, among other things, will stop the "split-banknote" trick, a favorite practice in the past when big-time counterfeiters set the South African police authorities many intriguing, sometimes romantic, problems.

But the practice of numbering notes gave the forger his biggest headache, and the presence of duplicate and unissued numbers among notes circulating recently abroad led to both the discovery of Nazi counterfeiting and the issue at short notice of new British notes.

British treasury notes and British coinage are acknowledged as symbols of international financial integrity, a fact proved by the royal mint making currency for most of Europe, Germany, on the other hand, is painfully short of currency. Gangster-like Hitler thought it an excellent idea to muscle-in with clever forgeries. But the scheme was short-lived. He forgot that the British royal mint has an exclusive clientele extending from Yugoslavia to Bolivia, and that there are between customers far more ways than one of trapping the wild mind of the Wilhelmstrasse, who find it increasingly difficult to buy anything anywhere.

Determining Factors

Events And Will Of People Govern Progress In Democracies

It may be said by some that the wheels of progress in Canada turn slowly since it has taken 30 years for obviously necessary reforms to win their way. In some respects there is ground for criticism, for such measures as health and unemployment insurance, which are not yet in operation here, were adopted in New Zealand and some of the Scandinavian lands over 40 years ago. On the other hand, the passage of legislation in a democracy has to wait until the consent of the majority is won. Unemployment insurance is now here because a generation has grown up that is convinced of its need. This and other reform legislation have come not strictly as party measures, but when all parties were united in their favor. History shows that events and the will of the people are the determining factors in issues such as this.—Toronto Star.

Considered Best Feed

Experiments Show Barley Is Superior For Bacon Production

According to the report for 1938 and up to July 1, 1940, of the National Barley and Linseed Flax Committee submitted at the recent meeting of the National Advisory Committee on Agricultural Services held in Ottawa, on July 17th, the results of the barley feeding experiments show conclusively that barley is superior to corn or oats as a feed for bacon production. This superiority is both in the cost of production and in the quality of bacon produced. The grades of feed barley have been improved to meet this demand. There is, however, continues the report, a further problem that might be considered by the National Feed Committee, namely, that of grading barley meal.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

LIGHT OF RELIGION

Light is sown for the righteous, gladness for the upright in heart.—Psalms 97:11.

It is mind, after all, which does the work of the world.—Channing.

Materially minded men and women don't really unite; only through spiritual unity can people progress.—Lady Astor.

He who sees clearly and enlightens other minds most readily, keeps his own lamp trimmed and burning.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Let thy religion be seen. Lamps do not talk, but they do shine. A lighthouse sounds no drum, it beats no gong; yet far over the waters, its friendly light is seen by the mariner.—Cuyler.

Walk in the light and thou shalt see Thy path, though thorny; bright; For God, by grace, shall dwell in thee, And God Himself is light.

The Standard Parachute

Measures 24 Feet Across And Cost Is About $200

Parachutes have played a big part in the war in Europe. Not to speak of what they have done for so-called "parachute troops," we may think of the hundreds of aviators who have been saved by them. With a plane burning, or in some other way made unfit for flying, the pilot and anyone else aboard may leap out and reach the ground safely.

Parachutes differ in size, so we cannot give figures which will fit all of them. Recently a standard British parachute was described as having "85 square yards of finest silk," and as measuring 24 feet across. The cost was given as about $200 for each parachute.

Retains Value Indefinitely

British doctors and scientists have discovered a method of keeping blood for transfusions so it retains its value indefinitely. Health Minister MacDonald told a luncheon meeting in London, according to a British Broadcasting Corporation report. He said that up to now blood obtained from voluntary donors retained its value for four weeks only.

Food By The Ton

The daily issue of foodstuffs to feed an army division of, for instance, 16,000 men, takes on gigantic proportions. Eight tons each, of beef, bread and potatoes, one ton of jam, another of butter, as well as 28 pounds of pepper are required.

For timid women often left alone in the house a knocker with a hole through which they can peek at those who knock has been devised in London.

HOME SERVICE

EASY TO GIVE YOUR DOG THE PROPER SUMMER CARE

Take These Rules as a Guide

Summer heat waves affect your dog as they do you. But it's not hard to keep your dog healthy and happy all year round—even during the difficult "dog days"—when you know the proper care.

It's always important for a dog to have plenty of fresh, pure drinking water. During a hot spell keep his drinking pan shaded and refill at least three times a day.

If your dog enjoys swimming let him cool off this way as often as he likes. But frequent bathing with soap is bad for his skin, and unnecessary, since doggy odors are not due to perspiration but to wrong diet, unclean sleeping quarters, lack of right grooming and exercise.

In warm weather a full-grown dog should be fed once a day and meat should be given him in summer as well as in winter. A well-balanced diet includes milk and vegetables, but not too many starches.

And don't be alarmed if your dog eats grass. Grass is a natural laxative he may need.

Complete details on the right diet are given in our 32-page booklet. Tells how to recognize and treat dog ailments, has instructions on grooming, housebreaking, training, teaching clever tricks.

Send in coins for your copy of "How to Choose and Care for Your Dog" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man.

New Modernized List

Scale Of Ratios Is Scientific In Canadian Forces

Calories, vitamins and all elements beloved of dieticians have played an important role in preparing a new scale of ratios for the Canadian Military and Air Forces. Plenty of fresh fruits, eggs and milk are contained in the new modernized list. A committee of scientists and dietetic experts of the National Research Council of Canada provided the new scale upon request of the Department of National Defence. The new list presents a varied and balanced diet, of health-giving foods, in all instances arising from commodities which Canada produces in abundance.

Kept In Circulation

All Money Collected In Taxes Is Put To Work

The Peterborough Examiner says: The Government does not gather in money and then keep it. The one and only reason why a Government takes money from the people is that it wants to spend it, and when it spends the money it is in circulation. That money goes out working rather than remaining in deposit boxes in the form of securities or in banks as deposits.

It means that larger pay rolls will be created, that more people will be working and that fewer will have to ask the relief office for support.

After careful experiments, C. A. Arnholt, Hayling, Eng., announces that hens produce a larger quantity of eggs when fed sawdust, a 10 per cent. mixture over a certain period.

She had not anticipated that it would be Harlow himself who would open the door to her. He wore a black frock coat, the ample skirts of which gave a faint illusion of a robe. She particularly noted his attire. A large white wing collar and a stiff-looking cravat of heavy black silk, a double-breasted waist-coat across which was looped a heavy golden watch-guard—he had the sartorial distinction of a ducal butler and was as much unconscious of his elegance. But the old thrill? "

Without realizing her action she shook her head slowly.

His was a tremendous personality, dominating, masterful, sublimely confident. But he was not god-like. Almost she felt disappointed. Yet if he had been the Harlow of her mind it is doubtful whether she would have entered the house.

"Most good of you!" He helped her to struggle out of her heavy coat. "And very good of Stebbings! The truth is that my secretary is down with flu and I have employed people from the agencies."

He opened the door of the library and, entering, stood waiting with the edge of the door in his hand. As she stepped into the library her foot slipped from under her on the highly polished floor and she would have fallen, but he caught her in a grip that was surprisingly fierce. As she recovered she was facing him and she saw something like horror in his eyes—just a glimpse, swift to come and go.

"This floor is dreadful," he said jerkily. "The men from Herran's should have been here to lay the carpet."

She uttered an incoherent apology for her clumsiness, but he would not listen.

"No, no—unless you are used to the trick of walking on it . . ."

His concern was genuine, but he made a characteristic recovery.

"I have a very important letter to write—a most important letter. And I am the worst of writers! Dictation is a cruel habit to acquire—the dictator becomes the slave of his typist!"

His attitude might be described as being genuinely offended. It struck Allen that he was not at all anxious to impress her. She missed the smirk and the touch of ingratiating pomposity with which the middle-aged business man seeks to establish an impression upon the new and pretty stenographer. In a sense he was brusque, though he was always pleasant. She had the feeling of being put in her place—but it was an exact grading—she was in the place she belonged, no higher, no lower.

"You have a book? Good! Will you sit at my table? I belong to the peripatetic school of dictators. Comfortable? Now—"

He gave a name and an address, spelling them carefully. The letter was to a Colonel Harry Maybrough, who had an office in Wall Street. "My dear Harry," he began. The dictation went smoothly from here on. Harlow's dictation was a little slow but distinct. He was never once at a loss for a word, nor did he founder in the morass of parentheses. Toward the end of the letter:

 the European situation remains settled and there is every promise of a revival in trade during the next few months. I, for one, will never weary of this so unimportant a matter as the Bonn affair will cause the slightest friction between ourselves and the French.

She remembered now reading of the incident. A quarrel between a sous-officer of the French army and a peppery British colonel who had gone to Bonn.

So unimportant was the incident that when a question had been raised in the House of Commons by an inquisitive member, he had been greeted by jering laughter. It seemed surprising that a man of Harlow's standing should think it worth while to make any reference to the incident.

He stopped here, pinching his chin and gazing down at her abstractedly. She met the pale eyes—was conscious that in some indefinite manner his appearance had undergone a change.

The pale eyes were deeper set; they seemed to have receded, leaving two little wrinkles of flesh to spoil the unmarked smoothness of skin. Perhaps she was mistaken, and was seeing now, in a leisurely survey, characteristics which had been overlooked in the shock of meeting him at Potheringay Mansions.

"Yes," he said slowly, answering, as it were, a question he had put to himself. "I think I might say that. Will you read back?"

She read the letter from her notes and when she had finished he smiled.

"Splendid!" he said quietly. "I envy Mr. Stebbings so efficient a young lady."

He walked to the side table, lifted a typewriter, and carried it to the desk.

"You will find paper and carbons in the top right-hand drawer," he said. "Would you mind waiting for me after you have finished the manuscript? I shall not be more than 20 minutes."

Allen murmured some polite commonplace and wondered what was coming next. Nothing, apparently, for—with a quick glance round the room, the woman smiled out at her hands still clasped before her, leaving the girl to her penitence and self-reproach. And these distresses were inevitable. A prying kitchen maid (she told herself), who read her mistress' letters and poked into the mysteries of locked drawers was a pattern of decorum compared with one who had some pretensions to being a lady and yet must inspect the waste paper of a chance employee.
